

Lore's Artist in Residence Program 2019

Deadline November 1, 2018.

About

Lore provides professional, emerging and established artists with time and space to research and create ongoing or new bodies of work while engaging with the surrounding ecology and local community of Wellington County. The artist in residence program is 2-4 weeks in length during the months of June-September. We encourage all artists from any discipline to apply.

Community Exchange

With a focus on oral traditions and informal education, Lore's artist in residence program includes a community engagement component. The residency is most suitable to artists who are interested in community outreach. The selected artist in residence will have the opportunity to volunteer on the farm, facilitate workshops, artist talks, and/or have a performance/exhibition at the end of their residency.

Accommodations

Situated on an 83-acre organic vegetable farm in Hillsburgh, the artist in residence lives outdoors in a 12ft yurt equipped with a woodstove. There is access to running water, a simple outdoor camp kitchen, and an outdoor shower.

Studio Space

Studio space is located in the barn, a simple open space with tables and chairs. Artists have access to the internet located at the farm house during the day. Projects that do not require access to specialized equipment are most suitable to the residency program. Artists are responsible for ensuring any additional specialized equipment.

Fee

Lore's Artist in Residence is a community exchange program. There is no financial fee to participate. Artists are responsible for all travel and personal expenses including food and materials related to their works.
